NORWAY AND VICINITY.

Martha Washington Sale.

Concert Hall never looked better than
with its decorations of green and white
the Martha Washington sale, Tuesday and Wednesday. The ladies dressed in the stately manner of "the mother of her country" added dignity and grace to the occasion. Their fine old dresses and kerchief and cap with hair

Martha Washington made them look as though they had just stepped out of a picture.

The sale tables and booths on Tuesday evening were neatly and artistically arranged. The candy, variety, food, combination, apron and art tables were along both sides of the hall, with the fancy work stand in the center. At the front of the hall was a table of various articles which were sent to the society
by different manufacturers as samples of their goods. Whatever the goods were sold for was clear gain to the society as the goods were sent free. On the stage
was a typical "gipsy" tent, where the fortunes of those desirous of knowing the future were told.

The book of "Quotations and Original Sentiments" was the hit of the fair and it had a ready sale.

The silk quilt brought $14 and was presented to the president of the circle,
Mrs. T. H. Savin, as a slight recognition of the work she has done for the society.

Wednesday evening, a bountiful sup-
per of baked beans, salads, pastry, cake,
coffee and other good things was served by still other Martha Washington.

The entertainment though short was much enjoyed by the large number present.

The supper was served to about 150
people.

Those who got up the fair worked hard to make it a success and they succeeded.

The "Wild Cats" had another enjoyable supper and evening at the Red Lion.
This time the ladies were the cooks.

George Yarnall, a big load of logs to the village, last Wednesday. The load consisted of 47 logs and he had six cattle hitched to the sled.

Mrs. L. M. Lunt has been confined to the house a part of the week with a severe cold. It will be seen in the advertising columns that she is advertising
to close out her dry and fancy goods
business.

Fred C. Withersell, son of John With-ersell and grandson of I. L. Withersell of Lynn, Mass., was in town last week.
He reports his grandfather in good health and says he is thinking of visiting here another season.

A boy with four rabbits black and
dirty white dangling from his shoulder,
gun on the other, was leading a long-
eared black and white hound on a string was seen coming into the village recently. The boy seemed pleased, so did the dog.

Stephen G. Libby, who recently bought the building on Deering street, recently occupied by the Norway & Western Railroad Co. as an office, has purchased a lot on Pearl street of H. L. Libby. He is to move the building to the lot and make it into a house.

The Boston Herald says: "Freeland Howe is preparing to make his 46th annual visit to Upper Dam." It would be correct if the word "annual" had been omitted. He is preparing to make his 46th trip. He has commenced packing his trunk and replenishing his stock of fishing tackle.

There is talk of building a bridge across the river and locating a new street from Main to Orchard street. We fail to see that a move toward that effect from the coming town meeting. This would open up some good building lots and make residences on Orchard street more desirable.

Co. D's Rifle Match.

The rifle match at Opera House, Monday evening, was well attended and those present witnessed a very exciting contest. The two teams were made up of men from Co. D, twenty men in each team, the defeated team to pay for an oyster supper. The distance shot was 50 feet, each man having 10 shots, five standing and five prone. The contest ended with $21 scores for Moses P.
Stiles' team and $19 for Geo. T. Tabbs'
team.

Following is the make-up of the two teams with the number of points each
man made:

This was a most remarkable event for marksmanship for one company and it would probably be hard to duplicate by any company shoot of equal number of men from one company in the United States.

It is talked that another public match
will be given in the near future.

John Walker was in Lewiston, Saturday.

James Pledge was in Lewiston, Saturday.

Gay Cotton is working at Paris Hill
cutting wood.

F. H. Noyes was in Berlin, N. H.,

George Stevens of North Waterford
was in town, Saturday.

F. A. Hall has resumed work on the McCrellis delivery team.

Rev. C. H. Parsons, Presiding Elder of Lewiston district, will be present to hold a quarterly meeting commencing
with a business meeting, Saturday evening, next. Sunday morning, a Love Feast at 9.30, followed by a sermon from the Elder, after which the communion
will be observed of the Lord's supper.

The S. S. Society of Hebron are to have a supper at the Beal's hotel, Saturday evening.

A large snow shoeing party of young people went to Wm. C. Leavitt's cottage, the Banglow, the past week. They had a supper and a general good time.

"He went some I tell you," is what James Pledge says regarding the action
of his year-old stallion at Lewiston
last week. A quarter was made on the ice in 35 seconds.

Virgil and Rogers Emerson of Chas-
tans, N. H., stopped over night here last Tuesday on their way to Madison, where they are moving. They were taking a load of furniture across country.

Col. M. W. Sampson is visiting Pa-
posse Pond, Waterford, this week.
Wednesday 46 pickers were taken. He and the McIntire boys and Geo. Brooks of Portland are stopping at the McIntire
camp.

W. M. Temple of Lewiston, who some time ago bought the H. L. Horne mill at Steep Falls, has recently bought a lot on Pearl street of Freeland Howe. It is thought he will use the lumber in the mill to make a tenement house on the Pearl street lot.

The local political pot is beginning to stew. It is the people's right to say who shall be the municipal officers.

The friends of W. A. Bicknell are bringing him forward as a candidate for select-
man. The same is true regarding the candidacy of H. J. Bangs.

(OXFORD COUNTY, ME.)

BEN BOLT—AN AIREDALE TERRIER.

Owned by John A. Woodman, Norway, Maine.

By the courtesy of the editor of Suburban Life, we present an accurate likeness of the latest dog acquisition to the Beal's House family, "Ben Bolt."

Some weeks ago Mr. Woodman advertised in this paper that he would pay $50.00 and no questions asked for a dog to take the place of "Nixie", the popular house and street dog, who has been absent and silent for two years past.

The late "Nixie"

The Airedale as shown above, is the result of letting his want be known to our readers, as this valuable dog was sent him as a present from an absent friend, with the request that he be well cared for and fed from the transient table.

Exodus to the Shrine.

Kora Temple, at Lewiston, was visited by a goodly number of the faithful from this vicinity, Thursday evening, the 22.
There was work in all the degrees and a banquet.

Among those who attended—Charles
L. Hathaway, Dr. B. F. Bradbury, H. B.
Foster, George A. Cole, Dr. F. E. Drake,
Hon. A. S. Kimball, of Norway, Wm. J.
Wheeler and W. L. Gray, of South Paris.
Seven wayfarers desert wanderers were taken in the caravan and led on a string to the Lewiston Oasis. They were:
C. H. Sargent, H. F. Andrews, C. E.
Ridlon, Dr. F. N. Barker, O. P. Palmer,
A. J. Stearns and Frank Kimball.

A surprise party was given to Gladys
Keene, Tuesday evening, Feb. 20th.
Various games were played and an entertainment of selections on the graphophone, also dancing. Miss Keene was presented with a locket and chain. A general good time was enjoyed. Those present were:

Sadie Farrington, Bell Brown,
Gertrude Beasley, Ester Nickerson,
Grace Goodwin, Frank Moore,
Myrtle Rowe,
Lois Benson, Franke Paragard,
Eva Steen, Ethel Foster,
Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Russell.

Upper Water Street.

A. A. Everett is getting some lumber to enlarge his shop and ell.

Harry L. and Paul R. Holden are employed in Portland in a shoe shop.

D. M. French, assisted by Rufus Rice, has been putting the corn shop in order
to receive their season's cans, which are expected daily.

Mrs. Josie Holden, who was operated on last October, is not in the best of health, but with some assistance from her daughter, Mrs. Almore Everett, has pied and put together thirteen cotton and one woolen quilt since November 1.

Mrs. Abbie K. Brown has sold her residence to a Buckfield lady and is to surrender the premises on April 1st.
Jesse K. Brown has purchased a tract of land of Mrs. I. L. Hill nearly opposite the pumping station and has the frame
up for an ell.

Food Sale.

The ladies' circle of the Methodist church will have a food sale, next Thursday afternoon and evening, March 1.
At G. A. R. hall, commencing at 3 p. m.
Food of various kinds, aprons, homemade candy and ice cream will be on sale. There will be an entertainment which will begin at 8 o'clock.

Walter S. Stearns and family moved into his recently purchased Pleasant street house last Wednesday. We understand he swapped his Tucker street
house for this one.

A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by the snow shoe party gotten up by Mrs. J. Fletcher that went to the ball run by the mother's club at Norway Lake. The first part of the evening was spent playing cards, after which an oyster supper was served.
The merry crowd passed the remainder of the evening playing cards and dancing. There were about 42 present.

Mrs. R. T. Elliott of Main street entertained the Guild of Church Workers and Men's club of the Episcopal church
at her home, Tuesday evening. A musical program was well carried out. Cake and coffee were served. About thirty were in the invitation. Mr. and Mrs. Hillman are leaving Norway very soon to return to Calais, their former home. They will be greatly missed by the many friends they have won during their short stay in town.

The annual business meeting of the Y. P. C. U. was held at the home of Della M. Noyes, Tuesday evening, Feb.
13th. The past year has been a profitable one, the attendance at the devotional meetings has more than doubled.
Much regret was felt when it was learned that the retiring president, Eda V. Frost, was to leave town. The following officers were elected:

Pres.—Charles F. Ridlon.
V. Pres.—Alice Schmeier.
Sec.—Grace E. Rickell.
Treas.—Maude Mixer.
Chairman of committees—
Lookout—Abner Mann.
Devolitional—Myrtle Haskell.
Two-cent—Evelyn Merrill.
Post-office Missions—Rev. S. G. Davis.
Relief—Della M. Noyes.
Social—Eda A. Fawc.

Knights Templar Banquet.

The Knights Templar of Oxford
county, and ladies, enjoyed a banquet at Beal's Hotel, Thursday evening, of last week. The dining room was decorated with potted plants and cut flowers, the table being brightened with pinks.
Boutonnieres of pinks were placed at each cover. Music was furnished by Stearns' orchestra during the banquet and for the dance that followed. Those present were:

tors, written by Judge C. F. Whitman.
It will be illustrated and is of historic value.

Mrs. Eliza Frost and daughter Eda,
are to make their home in Massachusetts, in the near future. Mrs. Frost has rented her house here and closed
her engagement at the S. B. & Z. S.
Prince's dressmaking rooms. In a few weeks they will go to friends in Somersworth, N. H., for a visit and afterwards to Massachusetts, where the older
daughter, Alice, is to teach.

SOUTH PARIS.

The Fan Tan Ban had a very pleasant party at the Beal's hotel, Norway, on the evening of Feb. 20th. As it was so near Washington's birthday, the affair took on the nature of a Washington celebration. Beautiful and appropriate favors were at each plate, when the party sat
down to the banquet table at 9 o'clock.
The menu was fine and fully appreciated by the guests. After the banquet
the company adjourned to the parlors
and spent two hours or more in games,
music and a general good time. There were 22 ladies present, of whom two,
Mrs. Kate S. Linder of Mankato, Minnesota, and Mrs. Rose Davis of South Paris were specially invited guests of the club.

Thousands Have Kidney

Trouble and Never Suspect it.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, cures all ailments arising from kidney trouble, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder, and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free, by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

Safe for Children

Dear Sirs:— I use your "L. F." Bitters all the time, and could not get along without them. I even give it to my little boys.

MRS. LEVI CLARK, Aug. 31, 1904. North Cushing, Me.

The True "L. F." Atwood's Bitters used in small doses prevent these ingenious attacks so frequent in childhood.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

Before we had war it was a story that was told. When it came it was a real story, and this, believe me, is a part of the real story, with, thrown in, the strangeness of a woman's temper—that unaccountable thing which never can quite solve and perhaps used in small doses prevent these ingenious attacks so frequent in childhood.

Now, to go back a bit, you must fancy again this young woman whom

The Man of San Fernandez.

Yet with the unspiced guns they kept up a brave resistance and so strong a one that the invaders at last put out to sea, leaving many of the defenses, to be sure, crumbling and some twenty soldiers killed and half a dozen persons wounded and another half a dozen dead among the blameless townfolk. For the logic of battle is that noncombatants shall be hurt and perish as well as combatants.

A great and thorough investigation occurred that night. The tall American stood before General Gonzales and said almost sneeringly:

"Yes, you're right, general; I spiked the guns. I was here to do it. I couldn't serve—they didn't give me a chance. But I would serve. There's the story. Stand me up against the wall and shoot me. That ends the rest of it. I am not going to shrink from the usage of war, and a very proper usage it is."

Now, they say, Trilany was marched out, and the executioners stood in line, muskets raised, when an orderly rushed up and ordered them lowered.

The prisoner was marched away, to be shut up in the Morro castle, for it had been discovered that he must not be there, because no man in San Fernandez knew the location of the mines—the exact location of all of them, that is—save this self confessed traitor. That knowledge must be had. The gunboats, or the two that were left—there had been five—could not stir about. The situation was most remarkable, and certainly from the point of view of General Gonzales and his officers it was terrible. For himself the general saw nothing but court martial and the extreme sentence, for his weakness had given the man the position.

The prisoner was brought before him again. Yes, he knew, but he would not tell. They did not know what to do with him. The only plan recurring to them was to hold him up by his thumbs, a method pursued on Spanish ships. They let him down when he had lost consciousness, his hands torn out of shape, but he had not said a word—in fact, it was three days after this before he could speak coherently.

The British consul told his family the episode. One day Miss Chatwind presented herself at General Gonzales' quarters. She asked very briefly if, because she had known the prisoner in the old days, she might not see him. The general had been extremely devoted to the young lady, although it may not have been altogether jealousy which prompted him to give her a refusal. Her insistence against his duty did not avail. But she persuaded her stepfather to let her remain in San Fernandez for the present, even if he were much against it.

Four days after this Trilany in his cell, somewhat recovered from the ordeal through which he had passed, heard the bolts drawn and the jailer appeared, although it was not his usual hour. The man explained in a very few words that he had arranged for his escape. He listened with the utmost astonishment. The man went on and said:

"I have been well paid for it, and I propose to get away with you where they can't catch me. A boat will be waiting at midnight outside of Pinos point, Pinos point being about four miles from the southern entrance to the harbor of San Fernandez and well removed from the works."

"That night this was accomplished, and the jailer and his prisoner under the cover of a most dark night put out to sea. The next morning the little boat was picked up by one of the newspaper tugs following the fleet. There were two rowers, a man in the uniform of a Spanish infantry sergeant and a man hollow eyed and worn down, who seemed to talk rather incoherently and then stopped talking, but finally asking to be sent at once to the admiral or the senior captain."

It chanced that a portion of the American fleet on its way back to the waters of Havana next day passed the tug. The strange man had impressed the reporters in the boat, and, although they could not place his nationality, they thought he had something to say. As they could not get it out of him, they made an effort to secure him the audience desired. He declared he would not see any lesser officer than the one in command. The newspaper men in the meantime sent word by way of Key West of the story, making it very significant.

Three days later the captain saw the man. He thought his face was familiar, but he was not sure. The man had some paper given him. In the cabin he sat down and drew a military map. Turning, he said:

"There, sir (it was after a half hour or more), is the location of every gun, every mine, every defense of every sort in or about the harbor of San Fernandez."

"How am I to believe you? Who are you, anyway?"

"I was once, sir, James Trilany, lieutenant of the service."

Then the captain knew the resemblance he had noticed.

"Sir," he replied, "you'll be a lieutenant of the service again—and you are now!"

Before we had war it was a story that was told. When it came it was a real story, and this, believe me, is a part of the real story, with, thrown in, the strangeness of a woman's temper—that unaccountable thing which never can quite solve and perhaps used in small doses prevent these ingenious attacks so frequent in childhood.

Now, to go back a bit, you must fancy again this young woman whom

I have been talking about and who suddenly heard of a man whom once she had treated ill and whom after all—perhaps because she had treated him so ill—she had thought enough about to write a scathing note when she found him in a position impossible for her to think of in connection with a man whose character had seemed entirely different.

Then adding she heard that she was wrong and that he had been in this affair at San Fernandez as a spy, which is a career defensible in war and perhaps quite as necessary as that of the combatants who are engaged openly and who may hope for everything they may do to receive praise from their people, for the spy takes all the risk and the complete risk of an ignominious death, with little reward in view and the knowledge that his service perhaps never can be spoken of.

To Eleanor Chatwind the news which her stepfather sent came like a great shock. She had wronged this man as completely perhaps as she had wronged him before. She did not believe that he cared in the least degree whether she had or she had not. She had not this defense for her vanity. In fact, vanity, which is usually a dearer possession to women than to men, she put utterly aside, completely ignored it as if it had never existed, when she took that hasty, that impulsive, journey to San fernandez, and yet who among her friends or acquaintances would have held her a woman of the slightest impulse? But, as the proverb runs, never say your last word about any woman, although you may about any man.

She had gone to General Gonzales under that same impulse and had been refused, as you know, and then she had thought about the situation and what she could do. There is a saying—I have forgotten who coined it, but it is a rather old one—that the art of diplomacy should have been practiced by women, and it has been proved—those charming ladies who adroitly, cleverly, through the post of king's favorite, turned the destiny of a nation. Nor has it gone without good confirmation in Scotland and England, where more than once an intriguing woman has made treaties and policies.

How Miss Chatwind went at her affair is still a matter of some uncertainty, but she found exactly the friends and the intimates of the jailer. She went into a shabby little street—shabby even in San Fernandez—and met him. She found that he might be bribed, and she bribed it, and he was bribed, as you know. He, I believe, did the rest, and there's the whole story told, which you have read in its other detail. And now there are more details, particular details, which will not quite be brought out here, but which I can tell from my own observation of the case, and you can think about them.

You must go back to New York, that most interesting and changing town, for though I believe there is London, it is London, and though I know my Paris as well as most men who have not been apt students and do not know it too well, and though I know my Rome a bit and have loafed about there on Easter week and of misanthropic summers, know it from the Villa Borghese to the new American hotel; though I know my Monte Carlo and have gambled there and lost, and won, perhaps, experience; though I know all these places in a not too boastful way, I am free to confess after them all that New York is quite understandable.

Let us say in this digression that years ago it was provincial, but lately it has awakened, and the sheer force of the cosmopolitanism, of the many peoples gathered there from all the ends of the earth, the big and the little ends, has forced on it the potentiality of a great capital.

Later I have begun to suspect that it has a bit of French in its temper, for I woke up in the morning and found a city which was my very own, whose only exciting recent battle, hitherto had been over politics, say Tammany or his defeat, or over the comment excited by some millionaire or millionaire's ball—I woke, up to find this same town all afire with a military fever which never had seemed possible. Well, a great city, a big aggregation of people, takes on in its entirety the characteristics of the individual, becomes, in fact, the composite individual. Oh, but let's stop philosophizing, because I have this story to end.

The main point of the story was that I went up to dinner at Mr. Westchester at the Renewal. If you are anybody, you ought to have been invited there some time or another, so I need not explain; if you are nobody, I do not want to explain. I was put near a tall, fair, interesting young woman whom I seemed to remember, and she, having the tact of women, remembered me, of course—or does that sound rather vain? But she remembered me. She was Miss Chatwind.

Far Westchester is one of those places developed by the growth of the consciousness among people of leisure, of the value of country life, and there you can find good polo and golf to your pleasure and gossip by the smart set, horses to ride and women to flirt with up to the last dream of your desire in these essentials. I recalled in some way that little dinner at Van Brule's, and then directly in some way it became evident this was the girl, there being usually in every man's case some woman when he is past thirty, and I thought of Trilany.

Now, it happened that as I walked on the lawn I ran across her alone—and why should so entertaining a young woman be alone?—and I thought I was equal to her lack.

But she snubbed me. She took away my vanity, turning suddenly and saying:

"You are Lieutenant Trilany's friend?"

"Yes," said I. "He has been restored to his rank, I believe, and has been assigned to one of the new auxiliary cruisers."

"Do you know the story—why?" she asked.

I looked at her with some discretion, for the story was not known. It was said that Trilany, long in the service, had been employed as a spy by the government, and his restoration to an appointment had been due entirely to the government's consideration of what he could accomplish. No hint had so much as been given of the circumstance that the man had undertaken it by himself, without any encouragement save his own will to do. The government on its part had not mentioned it; Trilany on his own had not breathed it. He was restored; that was all.

I looked at her curiously there in the moonshine.

"Did he tell you?" she asked. "You know him very well."

I waited, considering my answer. "Well, you know," I said at last, "we were good chums in the old days, and he told me."

I faced her. "Ah, you know the story?"

"I know the story. I was down there then."

She hesitated and burst out: "I wish you would tell him some time or other, you know him so well, though I don't care what he thinks about me. I wrote him the most abominable note once, not believing in him. I wish you would tell him that I bribed the jailer; that I contrived his escape."

And she paused, and a sob escaped her, and I wish you would know that when a woman sobs I am completely unmanned. If I dared to confess it, if a woman shed tears I would do anything for her—more than she wanted, doubtless—and many a man who has

"Tell him that I bribed the jailer."

Consumption

There is no specific for consumption. Fresh air, exercise, nourishing food and Scott's Emulsion will come pretty near curing it, if there is anything to build on. Millions of people throughout the world are living and in good health on one lung.

From time immemorial the doctors prescribed cod liver oil for consumption. Of course the patient could not take it in its old form, hence it did very little good. They can take

and tolerate it for a long time. There is no oil, not excepting butter, so easily digested and absorbed by the system as cod liver oil in the form of Scott's Emulsion, and that is the reason it is so helpful in consumption where its use must be continuous.

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

AN OLD MAN'S TRIBUTE.

An Ohio Fruit Raiser, 78 Years Old, Cured of a Terrible Case After Ten Years of Suffering.

When suffering daily torture from backache, rheumatic pain, any ill of kidneys or bladder, Turn to Doan's Kidney Pills. A cure endorsed by thousands. Read an old man's tribute.

Sidney Justus, fruit dealer, of Mentor, Ohio, says: "I was cured by Doan's Kidney Pills of a severe case of kidney trouble of eight or ten years' standing. I suffered the most severe backache and other pains in the region of the kidneys. These were especially severe when stooping or when trying to lift anything, and often I could hardly straighten my back. The aching was bad at night, but just as bad at night, and I was always lame in the morning. I was bothered with rheumatic pains and a dropsical swelling of the feet. The urinary passages were painful, and the secretions were discolored and so free that often I had to rise at night. I felt tired all day. Half a box served to relieve me, and three boxes effected a permanent cure."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Justus will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-McBurn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price, fifty cents per box.

WEST FRYEBURG.

Mrs. Jessie (Malcolm) Heath.
At the home of her son, William Hill,
in this place, Mrs. Jessie (Malcolm) Heath, wife of Comrade Orrin Heath,
aged a little over seventy years, died
after several months of severe and painful illness. Mrs. Heath was a native of Dundee, Scotland, coming to this country in her youth, where she has since made her home. She was first married prior to the civil war, to Joshua Hill of Conway, N. H., whose remains were brought from one of the army hospitals
in the early part of the struggle to be buried in the Green Hill cemetery where also it was her wish to be buried.

After the war some years, Mrs. Hill married Mr. Heath to whom she was a faithful wife and comrade. She was a most estimable lady in the true sense of the word, and the neighborhood feels greatly its loss in her death.

Mr. and Mrs. Heath had been for many years residents of the Green Hill neighborhood, but removed in the autumn to spend the winter with Mrs.
Heath's son before mentioned. Besides her husband, Mrs. Heath leaves two sons, William, who with his wife have given their affectionate care to the aged couple, and Charles, who with his family live in Massachusetts. The funeral was from the home of William Hill, Friday.

Comrade Charles Howe is on furlough
from the Soldiers' Home in Togus. Mr.
Howe is in poor health.

One of our oldest residents and altogether lovely lady is Mrs. Hannah Charles who is very ill with but little hope of recovery.

The regular meeting of the Stirling Literary club was held, Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 13th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Jones, where were present
most of the active members of the club.
Selections in poetry comprised the program. "Tennyson's 'May Queen'" and
"New Year's Eve" were read by the president, Mrs. Marion Chandler; J.
Whitcomb Riley's "An Old Sweetheart
of Mine" was given by Mrs. Emma Walker, and other selections were read by Mrs. Olive Hutchins, Mrs. Kate Messer
and Mrs. Harriette Jones. The afternoon was a most agreeable one and a pleasing introduction to the feast of good things that appealed later to the eye and the palate as displayed in the brightly lighted dining-room, with its cozy open fireplace and liberally spread table. The club husbands were present in full numbers and full justice was done
to testify to the complete success of the efforts of the hosts, who never fail to insure a delightful time to their guests.
At a late hour the guests went their several ways homeward, the moonlight
drive making a fitting sequel to an altogether enjoyable evening.

Susie Kimball of North Yarmouth is the guest of her sister, Mrs. D. E. Hayes.

Mrs. Anna Billings has been visiting her daughter, Julia Brown, in Milton,
the past two weeks.

The "Goodwill" concert, which was to have been last Sunday evening, was postponed until next Sunday evening on account of sickness.

Mrs. Emily J. Felt went to Freeport,
last Monday, to see her brother, Abner D. Bryant, who lately underwent a very critical surgical operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Edwards of Auburn conducted services here and at North Woodstock, last Sunday. Mr.
Edwards is liked very much at both places.

Congratulations from many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Mann, following them as thickly as the rice did when he entered his mill here. Those working there were well prepared with rice and old shoes. Sometimes it seems too bad to waste so much rice.

NARRAGANSETT TURKEYS.

Points in Which This Breed Differs
From the Bronze.

From a recent bulletin issued by the United States department of agriculture the following information regarding the Narragansett turkey is gleaned.

The turkeys of this variety are next in size to the Bronze. They are of black ground color, each feather edging with a band of steel gray edged with black. This imparts a grayish tint to the entire surface plumage.

Mixed with this is the finish of metallic black and bronze luster. They are beautiful in form and feather and breed true to shape and color. The female has a lighter shade of gray in her markings than the male. Her entire color throughout is of lighter shading.

The standard weights of this variety are for males from twenty to thirty pounds, according to age; for

females, twelve to eighteen pounds.

Some old males of both this and the Bronze variety weigh over forty pounds. These weights are excessive

NARRAGANSETT TURKEY COOK.
females, twelve to eighteen pounds.

Some old males of both this and the Bronze variety weigh over forty
pounds. These weights are excessive

and of but little advantage in breeding.
Medium sized males and females are more valuable for producing stock.

None of the several varieties of turkeys of this breed are so fine in form
of breast and body nor so long in the leg as the Bronze, and they are of a rather more contented nature. They do not average so large in size as the Bronze, but where grown they are highly valued. Some declare that the Narragansett will reach market size
and condition in less time than the Bronze turkeys, but the writer has not been able to ascertain the truth of this statement.

Balanced Ration For Fowls.
You cannot well overestimate the value of cut clover hay for fowls, says
a Kansas correspondent of Farmers' Advocate. As a balanced ration good,
well cured clover hay will come as near balancing an exclusive grain ration as anything I know of. If eastern poultrymen could only see our prepared alfalfa clover hay as we raise it in the west and see how greedily our fowls eat it up and relish it they would put out a good acreage of alfalfa. Alfalfa is much ahead of all other clovers, and fowls like it much better than the common red clover.

When well prepared, with the leaves
on, which is easily done if the clover
is cut before it comes into bloom, this hay in connection with green cut bone and the ordinary grain ration will give results in winter egg production.
A fine quality of hay may be used without cutting to good advantage, but a clover hay cutter is certainly to be recommended.

NEW SHORT STORIES

Advance of Medical Science.
The late Postmaster General Henry Payne had a friend in Milwaukee who is a physician and owns an X ray machine, says the New York Times.

"The doctor," said the late postmaster general, in relating the story, "was interrupted one day by the hurried entrance of a young man. 'Doctor,' said
he, 'I have swallowed my diamond pin.
I wish an examination made.'"

"The doctor was not enthusiastic, for the young man already owed a large bill. However, the examination was made, but it revealed no sign of the diamond.

"I am sure that I swallowed it," protested the youth haughtily.

"As a plausible explanation the doctor suggested innocently: 'The rays reveal only solids. Perhaps the diamond was paste.'"

"I did not come here to be insulted," retorted the youth.

"Likely you came, to pay that little bill," encouraged the physician.

"I'd pay you now if I had the money
with me," said the caller.

"Beg pardon," observed the doctor smiling, "the X rays located a coin in your vest pocket which will at least
pay for this examination."

"The bills which encircled the silver dollar were sufficient to wipe out the entire debt, and the young man left,
cursing the advance made in medical science."

Light Meal In the Evening.
A Georgian tells this story of the late Alexander Stephens, says the Nashville Banner:

"Mr. Stephens was slated for a joint debate with Rance Wright during a presidential campaign. Wright by way of a tale said that Stephens had said he could eat him (Wright) for breakfast. Ben Hill for dinner and Bob Toombs for supper.

"Mr. Stephens possessed very little storage room in his stomach, and when it came his turn to reply he said that he denied that he had made any such assertion. 'If I contemplated any such feast,' said Mr. Stephens, 'I certainly would have changed the order. I would have taken Ben Hill for breakfast, Bob Toombs for dinner and my friend
Rance Wright for supper. My mother taught me from early infancy to eat a light supper, and so I would have topped off with Wright.'"

"The answer completely snuffed out
the good impression Colonel Wright had made."

ENTERPRISING CITIZENS.

How Residents of a Western Community are Booming Their Town.

"Almost any town can be boomed and built up if its residents will put a little brains and money in the effort,"
said the president of a western board of trade recently. "Take some of the towns in this part of the country, for instance, which have been growing rapidly in the last few years. The residents of these communities are not asleep and letting things run themselves, but they are up and doing all the time and losing no opportunity to make the most of every chance that presents itself. 'Not only that, they are reaching out after chances and have landed more than one good thing.

"One progressive western town that I have in mind, and that I will call Blankville, has attracted much business and many desirable residents by means of, writeups in the newspapers.
This is an excellent plan, as capitalists
and others are continually on the lookout for desirable towns in which to locate. Here is the way the progressive people of Blankville call attention
to the advantages of their town:

"Blankville is inhabited by energetic and enterprising citizens who are thoroughly alive to the interests of the town and community. They join heartily in any enterprise that tends to advance these interests. They want manufacturers to locate in their midst
and are prepared to offer substantial
and liberal inducements to secure them.
Any one seeking a location for any kind of a manufacturing plant in Blankville can expect a generous consideration and the proper encouragement on the part of its citizens. They are united and public spirited in public enterprises as well as in other matters.

"Splendid railroad and shipping
facilities, cheap lands, plenty of water, an abundance of cheap fuel
and a mild, salubrious climate are some of the inducements offered.

The advantages afforded by the two lines of railroads in the competitive freight rates are items in the transportation of products and supplies that cannot be overlooked. The cheapness of lands for factory sites
and homes for employees should also demand attention. An ample supply of cheap fuel and an exceedingly healthy location are features that should not be passed over lightly."

"The circular closed with a complete list of schools, churches, cost of living,
police and fire protection, price of rents,
farming facilities and products and all the information that a prospective investor would wish to know."

PATIENCE AND HOPE

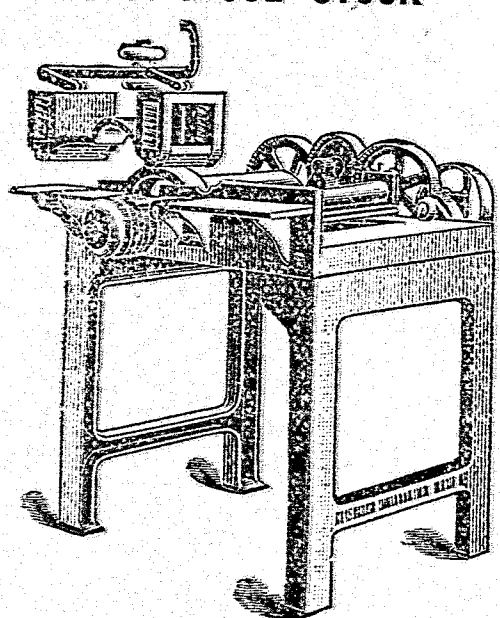

It is not reasonable to assume that any chronic malady—even though attended by no dangerous symptoms—can be cured at once. And any preparation said to do so may well be distrusted. But it is the experience of multitudes of intelligent people all over the land, for many years, that a persevering use of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy will soon relieve and ultimately cure cases of Fever and Ague, Biliousness, Rheumatism, Debility of the Stomach, Bowels, an impure state of the Blood, when no other medicine or treatment has been of any permanent benefit. Sufferers may properly be reminded that Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is no speculative preparation, placed upon the market to fill the pockets of a proprietor who is ignorant of the first principles of medicine, but a prescription used with uniform success by Dr. Kennedy long before he ever dreamed of making it public.

Three Troubles—One Cause.
Weak bodies, feeble digestions, and shaky nerves are usually found in combination, but the principle trouble is with the stomach. Unless the food is thoroughly digested and assimilated the body cannot be nourished; and unless the liver and kidneys properly secrete the waste matter of the blood is poisoned and the nerves break down. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy corrects the disordered digestive apparatus, converts the food into pure blood, and tranquilizes and strengthens the nerves. The result is increasing vigor, sound sleep, and a clear mind.

D. D. D. Prescription
Worth its weight in gold

D. D. D. remedy is worth its weight in gold. One bottle cured my little boy Francis, three years old, of a bad case of Eczema. I had tried all sorts of remedies without success. When I got the bottle of D. D. D. of you I had no faith in it and expected the result would be as in the past experiences with other remedies, but to my surprise one bottle made a complete cure, and also cured my hands when I had cut them and caught the Eczema from my little boy. I had tried a great many salves and washes with no success. I cheerfully recommend to all troubled with Eczema.

M. Fallieres, France's New President

THE election of M. Clement Armand Fallieres as president of the French republic directs attention to the difference between French and American methods of choosing a chief magistrate. M. Fallieres was elected by the members of the senate and chamber of deputies in joint session. The two bodies met at Versailles and balloted secretly for a successor to President Emile Loubet. Each member in turn deposited his ballot in an urn provided for the purpose. There are 591 deputies and 300 senators in France, making 891 members of the two houses, constituting together the national assembly. A candidate for president must receive a majority of the votes cast in order to be elected. Fallieres received 449 votes out of 545.

Although much popular interest attaches to the election of a president in France, no such political importance attaches to the event as in the United States. In this country the question of which party shall be in power for the ensuing four years hinges on the vote of a presidential election. In France it is possible for several ministers representing different parties to be in office in the course of a single presidential term. The powers of the national executive are in reality very limited. His chief duties are to entertain foreign potentates and do the honors at certain state or popular functions. Though he has considerable power in theory he does not as a matter of custom and practice exercise it. He is not elected by a popular vote or even by an electoral college representing a popular vote. Though he is supposed to have a veto on bills passed by the lawmaking body, as a matter of fact no president since MacMahon has exercised such a right. The French president may merely request for further deliberation. The president of the United States selects his cabinet without any dictation from congress. In France the president merely acts as the instrument of the chamber of deputies in forming ministries, which represent the political complexion of that body, just as the king of England does in making up a cabinet when the balance of power shifts from one party to another. The French government has been described as a centralized parliamentary republic. The real governing power is the chamber of deputies. In theory the ministers are appointed by the president and serve during his pleasure. As a matter of practice they are appointed by the leader of the majority in the chamber of deputies and resign when defeated. The term of the president is seven years. But it is seldom that a ministry continues in power over two or three. This is due to the number of factional divisions and party groups. Instead of two principal parties, as in the United States, there are in France the Conservatives, including the few royalists and Bonapartists still left in parliament; the Moderate Republicans, the Radicals, the Socialists and several other divisions.

President Elect Fallieres will take office on Feb. 18 and is the same type of man as the president whom he succeeds. Like M. Loubet, he has risen to distinction from the lowliest rank. His grandfather was a blacksmith and his father was clerk in a magistrate's court. He was born Nov. 8, 1841, in Mezin and as a boy at school was so dull that his father predicted he would never make a success in life. He was a lazy sort of youth until just before he reached his majority, when he seemed to awaken to a realization that to succeed he must exert all his energies, and he then began to exhibit a boundless ambition. He was called to the bar in the town of Norez and not long afterward became its mayor. Norez returned him to the chamber of deputies in 1876, and he affiliated with the group known as the Republican Left. He soon attained a reputation as an orator and steadily rose to influence. He has held various ministerial positions, and President Carnot made him prime minister, but the cabinet he selected proved unsatisfactory, and he did not retain office long. In 1890 he was elected a senator and in 1899 was chosen president of the senate. In appearance he is stout and rather short, and he is very democratic in his manners. He has a wife, who is quite popular, and a son and daughter, is fond of hunting and is an adept at killing rabbits and hares. He is noted for always carrying an umbrella, rain or shine.

SHREWD TSI AN.

Once a Slave, Now the Real Ruler of China.

Tsi An, the dowager empress and real ruler of China, whose character is painted in complimentary colors in the book just published by Miss Katherine Carl, has had a remarkably romantic career. Miss Carl, who is an artist and whose acquaintance with the dowager empress came about through painting the portrait of her imperial highness, gives her a much better character than previous biographers. She has been described on the one hand as an unscrupulous schemer who has not hesitated to resort even to murder in the execution of her plans and, again, as a beneficent ruler, a friend of progress.

Tsi An is the daughter of a Manchurian noble who became reduced to poverty. He sold his little girl to a Chinese merchant, who treated the young slave well and taught her to read and write. In 1848 the Emperor Hien

THE DOWAGER EMPRESS TSI AN.

Fung issued the marriage proclamation prescribed by law, in which all eligible maidens of Manchurian descent between the ages of fifteen and eighteen were requested to present themselves at the palace in Peking with a view to examination as secondary wives of the emperor. Tsi An was beautiful and, though a slave, was of noble birth, and she determined to go to the palace. Her master raised her from the status of slave to that of an adopted daughter; she was accepted as one of the emperor's wives and in time won not only his esteem, but that of the empress. The latter had no male issue, but Tsi An bore to the emperor a son. She had herself proclaimed empress of the west, the highest title to which a secondary wife could aspire. When Hien Fung died, her son succeeded him as Tung Chi. He died under mysterious circumstances in 1875 and left no son, and the candidate favored by Tsi An, a little boy of four, came to the throne as Kwang Su. The death of the empress in 1881 left Tsi An sole mistress of China's destinies. In 1889 she married the emperor, then seventeen, to her niece, a matrimonial arrangement which further strengthened her power. She has never allowed Kwang Su to handle the reins of government. Though now seventy-one years of age, she still appears youthful and, according to Miss Carl, could pass for a woman in the forties.

HILLS

PRACTICAL GRADUATE OPTICIAN.

The only optician in this county who has ever personally attended an Optical School and has diploma for same.

Hills is recommended by nearly every first-class Physician in Oxford County, what more do you want?

If your eyes need treatment go to your regular Physician, IT'S SAFER than fooling with Quack Doctors and Fake Opticians.

NORWAY ADVERTISER, 1895, 11 years ago, says:—"Vivian W. Hills, our leading optician has been in Portland the greater part of the past few weeks, taking a post-graduate optician's examination, under the charge of a celebrated New York oculist. This examination, and practice at the Eye and Ear Infirmary must necessarily be a benefit to Mr. Hills in his examination of the eye. Mr. Hills took his first course ten years ago in Chicago and ever since has been in advance of all others. He also was the first in Oxford County to make a specialty of fitting the eye for all errors."

Hills' prices are the lowest. Why pay $5.00, $4.00 or $3.50 when you can get the very same at Hills for $2.50. Why pay $2.50, $2.00, when you can get the same at Hills for $1.00?

Don't understand us saying we are the only one who can fit you—some "traveling men," "spectacle dealers," "would be opticians" and "quack doctors" will fit you so you can see, but you will pay double the price that HILLS would ask you for the same. How do you know but a pair fitted by HILLS would be less strain on the eye? Try it, for why take chances? Don't fool with your eyes. Anyone can sell Glasses, WE FIT THEM.

NORWAY CENTER.

Fannie Hunt is home from Hebron for two weeks.
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cummings spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents at Maplecroft.
Howard Knightly and Irving Brown are hauling pine to Norway Lake for Walter Hobbs.
Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Haskell and little son were at W. O. Hobbs' one day last week.
Out of doors it seems more like April than February and it looks as if the snow would all leave soon, though we hope not quite yet.
Mrs. Dora Wyman's father, who has been staying with her this winter, has been very sick for several days and does not seem to be improving.

EAST WATERFORD.

W. P. Knightly returned, Saturday, from Newton, Mass.
Lester Knightly of Methuen, Mass., visited at Fred Knightly's last week.
Sam. Young, wife and little son called at P. H. Howe's one evening last week, also at Fred Knightly's, Saturday afternoon.
P. H. Howe and family, Lulu McIntire and Alice Knightly attended the bake bean supper at Norway town farm last Friday evening.

SOUTH ALBANY.

Mrs. Lydia Sawin is visiting friends in Albany.
Maud Dresser is visiting friends in Oxford.
Henry Sawin has swapped horses with George Cummings of Albany.
Roland Flint is visiting his father, Orin Flint, and his grandmother, Mrs. Ann Flint.
Mrs. Nora Dresser of North Waterford called at Merritt Sawin's and P. F. Dresser's, last Wednesday.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Canwell of Welchville congratulate them on the birth of a son.
Mrs. Charles Eames and daughter, Gladys, visited their daughter and sister, Mrs. Elliott Kimball, last Sunday.
Little Helen Holt received a fine gold neck chain from her friend, Mrs. Annie Stowell of Locke's Mills, for a present her first birthday.

The storm last Thursday was heavy enough to call out men and teams to shovel and break roads. It was just what was wanted by the lumbering men, as there has been such a small amount of snow in the woods that working teams has been difficult this winter.
The North Waterford correspondent recently compared the new school system rather unfavorably with the old district school. Probably that is so with the larger village schools but with us the number of scholars is small, where we used to have only 11 or 12 weeks for the whole year, now although the number of scholars is no more we have from 22 to 24 weeks of school and for the past year our teacher has been from among the best. We can be scarcely expected to regret the abolishment of the old district system.

EAST PARIS.

Will Cooper has sold his farm and is looking for another one. The farm has been owned in the family for more than a hundred years.
Grant C. Royal has quite a variety of dogs. Some of his fox hounds are excellent hunters. One of them chased a fox into Phil Mason's door yard this winter, and caught him. He was holding him down when the fox was shot.
The best fox story is told by a man who used to live near Streaked mountain. He was going to the woods one morning and came across a fox track in the snow that looked as though it was just made. He put his hand down into one of the foot prints and it was warm. He didn't have any hand but his boy was with him, and he told the boy to follow the track and bark like a hound which he did. The fox soon came round within a few rods of the man, and the man shot it.

BROWNFIELD.

The pupils of the high school gave the popular drama entitled Valley Farm at the Town hall on Friday evening with cast of characters as follows:

Harold Rutledge, a handsome man from the city.....Alfred Moore
Perry Dean, a young farmer, in love with Betty.....Walter C. Johnson
David Hildreth, an elderly professional man.....Dessie L. Row Silas Holcomb, owner of Valley Farm, and a typical farmer.....Eddie Wentworth
Azzariah Keep, the next proceeds were about $25.....Clifford Poor
Betty Holcomb, a bright country girl.....Elsie Whitney
Isabel Carney, a proud city belle.....Gertrude Quint
Mrs. Rutledge, Harold's mother.....Leah Eaton
Alvira Holcomb, Betty's old maid aunt.....Myrtle Walker
Lizzy Ann Tucker, the village gossip.....Belle Walker
Verena, the hired help.....Hazel Smith
The drama was followed by a dance and ice cream and cake was also for sale. A number of specialties were introduced between acts and Ham's orchestra furnished music. The next proceeds were about $25. The company plans to go to Hiram in the near future.

Mrs. Richard Sargent still continues very ill.
There are several cases of chicken-pox about town.

Samuel Durgin and sons have moved into their house on Main street.
The high school taught by George Haley closed Friday, also the private school taught by Jesse Rowe.

BUCKFIELD.

"Nothing so Kingly as Kindness."
"Suffer and toil for the dregs of men, and know strange words with a barbarous pen."

With rheumatism, a continuous cough, and eyes and nose trying titles for a street sprinkler's job, it is pretty hard work to write. And then our fingers are wobbly, and those curves which the compositor may think are the work of an artist are but the wobble of an unsteady hand, but from force of habit we keep on writing nonsense. Why don't I try and write "senses"? There are too many of that class now. It must be very dull for a type—he, she or it—to peck away week after week at our tum, tum, hence once in a while I try and break the monotony for type at the cost of being counted a crank.

Two runaways on Sunday with but little damage.
The W. C. T. U. held meetings Friday afternoon and evening, at the Baptist church with a speaker from abroad.

Electric lights are being placed in Dr. Head's buildings. A Mr. Marsh of Auburn is boss with Bert Tilton for helper.

It has been quite sickly but those I have previously mentioned are on the gain. I. W. Shaw has been ill but is run over, sits up considerably and is much better. Her nurse is Mrs. Beuroth from the city. Alice Nulty has a trained nurse and is gaining. Fannie Hersey is suffering from rheumatism, also Henry Kicker and 89 others, so to speak.

The Buckfield Grange presented the four act drama, Valley Farm, at Nezi-scot hall, Monday evening, Feb. 19th, with the following cast of characters:—
Harold Rutledge.....Stanwood Withington
Perry Dean.....George March
David Hildreth.....Bert Tilton
Silas Holcomb.....F. Warren
Azzariah Keep.....Joe Withington
Betty Holcomb.....Mrs. Helen Withington
Isabel Carney.....Mrs. Helen Withington
Mrs. Rutledge.....Mrs. Frank Withington
Lizzy Ann Tucker.....Mrs. Belle Nulty
Verena.....Mrs. Belle Nulty
The play was very well acted by him. $48 at the door, $5 for cake and coffee. Music by the Maricha Music club of Mechanic Falls was highly spoken of.

WEST BETHEL.

Blow Up.
The gaslight at the store of James E. Pike blew up last Monday evening, demolishing the windows and scattering the goods in various directions. Some of the debris was carried out in the road. The lighting apparatus was not injured but Mr. Pike was badly burned in the face, also his hand, but says he is all right otherwise.

E. J. Bell recently received a few days visit from his sister, Murphy is visiting friends at Norway and Paris.

Percy O'Brien is hauling birch at the mill. He is a hard working man.
